VIDEO: TOOLING UP – Metrology Done Right with Tony Almeida, Mitutoyo

Brought To You by Mitutoyo | May 01, 2023

Video Highlights

In this episode of MSC's Tooling Up Mitch Free is joined by Tony Almeida, Mitutoyo's Regional Sales Manager, for a discussion on measurement tools and instrumentation products.

A dimensional measuring guru, Tony Almeida breaks down his history in metrology, and defines the importance of data and calibration in the world of machining. With Mitutoyo's state of the art line metering products, he describes the key role metrology and modernizing the way your workforce collects data can play in optimizing your shop's productivity and efficiency.

We also get a glimpse into the calibration services Mitutoyo provides, significantly decreasing machine uncertainty, as well as how they address issues with parts, bottlenecks, and labor both in OEMs and job shops. Tony explains how outdated measurement practices slow down overall efficiency, and the solutions Mitutoyo provides.
