Video Highlights

In this episode of MSC's Tooling Up, we're joined by two special guests from Mitutoyo — Michal Grosenbach, Product Manager and Patrick Sullivan, National Accounts Manager.

Together, they're here to unveil a world of innovation in precision measurement tools. Throughout this episode, our focus is twofold: usability and the seamless management of data. One highlight of our conversation is the introduction of Mitutoyo's groundbreaking LH Height Gage. This remarkable device redefines the landscape of accuracy and ease of operation, making it accessible not only to industry veterans but also to those new to the field.

We also examine the differences between Mitutoyo's IDC and IDF gages. The IDC, a battery-operated unit, offers unmatched flexibility with remote operation, while the IDF, an AC-powered unit, ensures clear visibility across the shop floor.

You'll discover how Mitutoyo's commitment to quality and innovation positions them as a pioneer in the manufacturing industry. They've refined their tools to meet the changing needs of the market, prioritizing usability in their designs.

We'll also explore the vital role of data in the evolving manufacturing landscape. The discussion explores how Mitutoyo is at the forefront of data collection, ensuring that their tools seamlessly integrate into the era of smart factories.

So, if you're curious about the future of precision measurement in manufacturing, this episode is a must-see. Join us as we showcase how Mitutoyo is shaping the future of the industry, one precise measurement at a time.
