VIDEO: TOOLING UP: The Touchscreen Indicator You've Been Waiting For

Brought To You by Starrett | Jul 03, 2024

Video Highlights

In this episode of MSC's Tooling Up, Toni Neary talks with Mike Ingman, Director of Research and Development at Starrett, about the next generation of precision measurement tools. Mike shares his journey from designing spacesuits for NASA to leading the development of Starrett's innovative products, including the new W4900-1 touchscreen indicator. The discussion covers the ease of use, advanced features, and robust design of the W4900-1, which marks a significant leap in precision measurement technology. Mike also highlights the exclusive availability of this groundbreaking tool through MSC. Join Toni and Mike as they delve into the details of this cutting-edge development and its impact on the manufacturing industry.
