VIDEO: TOOLING UP: Scotch-Brite: From Household Brand to Industrial Applications

| Mar 03, 2025

Video Highlights

In this episode of MSC's Tooling Up, host Toni Neary speaks with German Munoz, Surface Conditioning Portfolio Manager at 3M, about the latest innovation in abrasive technology: Scotch-Brite Precision Surface Conditioning Discs. German shares his journey at 3M and how Scotch-Brite, known for its household pads, is revolutionizing industrial applications. They discuss the outstanding performance of the Precision Surface Conditioning Discs, which deliver superior results in cleaning, deburring, and finishing across a wide range of materials like stainless steel, aluminum, and titanium.

German discusses the advanced capabilities of these multi-purpose discs, explaining how they reduce production steps, improve efficiency, and increase material throughput by 40% compared to competitors. Learn how this innovative product is transforming industries such as aerospace, automotive, and metal fabrication, while helping manufacturers streamline their processes with fewer steps and greater precision.

Join Toni and German to explore the cutting-edge technology behind Scotch-Brite and how it can take your operations to the next level.
